

MORRIS LOVED GAY PARIS.

And He Started for There with His Employer's Money.

Captured at a Friend's Home Clad in Fine Attire.

Solomon Morris, a good-looking young Hebrew, nineteen years old, arrived in New York about two months ago on account of his inability to speak several languages, including German, French, Italian and English.

Stamm was delighted with his new clerk, who became very popular with the customers of the store.

Yesterday Morris was sent to the State bank on Grand street to make a deposit of $100,000 of which was in cash and the rest in checks. Morris went to his friend's home, but failed to make a deposit.

Stamm complained at Police Headquarters, and Detectives Price and Taylor learned that Morris was in the habit of visiting a family by the name of Baycomb on Elton street, East New York.

At first Morris was not allowed to go to the house, but he was finally admitted and found Morris, whom they had been looking for, in a room where he was dressed in new attire from head to foot. He was wearing a fine suit of clothes and a silk hat.

He had spent about $100 of his employer's money for clothing, and had also bought a ticket to Havre on the steamship La Bourgogne, which leaves Saturday.

He had also a railroad ticket from Havre to Paris, and he was always singing the praises of the gay city to his acquaintances.

ACCUSED BY SLOANE &amp; CO.

McConnell Held on a Charge of Swindling the Carpet Firm.

William McConnell, of Spokane Falls, Wash., was held for examination in Jefferson Market Police Court to-day on a charge of grand larceny.

McConnell was at one time the San Francisco representative of W. J. Sloane & Co., the carpet dealers. Several years ago when he talked of marrying he wrote the firm that his prospective bride was worth $10,000, and he would be able to invest a large part of this in business.

He was given a large part of this in business. McConnell sold these goods on his own account and made away with the proceeds. A specific charge of grand larceny of $10,000 is the cause of the present arrest.

A telegram was received by the Central Police a day or two ago from Supt. Crowley, of the San Francisco Police, on which information Detectives Hickey and Sheridan arrested McConnell yesterday as he was loading the White Star line steamer which was carrying his wife and two small children to Belfast, Ireland.

McConnell says he was going home to get more money to invest in business. He denies that he was swindling the firm. McConnell is a good-looking and well-dressed man.

His cousin, Emanuel Friend, announces his intention of obtaining a writ of habeas corpus, as he claimed the arrest was illegal.

Extradition papers are expected to arrive in four or five days.

TOWN RAIDED BY PIRATES.

Frenchmen Tortured by Acheens Outlaws and Slave Soldiers.

(By Associated Press.)

VICTORIA, B. C., Dec. 7.—According to advices received by the steamer Victoria, the Acheens pirates have been organized on shore by an ex-official of the Siamese army and recruited by Siamese soldiers, who have vowed vengeance on all Europeans, and Frenchmen in particular.

The Tongkin coast is in a state of terrorism, and a serious war appears ahead for the French. The pirates recently raided the town of Baclé, tortured Mr. Rotté to secure a ransom, put Mr. Bouyer in chains and stole money and goods. Mr. Bouyer is reported to have tried to escape, but was captured and hanged.

According to the Batavia Newshad another party of pirates, led by the Dutch and an Acheens post on Surropt passage has been destroyed.

The Government has been informed that Umar that the Netherlands India Government had taken him into its favor and bestowed upon him a pension also fired in his honor. This is expected to provoke jealousy.

OSCAR HAMMERSTEIN SUED.

Engine-Builders Claim He Has Not Paid Them in Full.

A motion was made before Judge McGowan in the City Court Chambers to-day to advance on the calendar for immediate trial a suit brought by the Western Engine Company against Oscar Hammerstein, of forty-eight-hour opera fame, for $250.

In its complaint the Western Engine Company alleges that in July, 1892, it entered into a written contract with Hammerstein to put into the Manhattan Opera-House for $200 an engine to run the electric light and heat system.

It alleges that Hammerstein, on account, but declined to settle the balance. The engine was not put into the theater and the contract was not completed.

Hammerstein's defense is alleged breach of contract. He claims that the engine did not run "without noise or vibration," as was stipulated. The case was reserved.

HELD UP BY A MAN WITH A SCAR.

John Kelly, alias Flynn, was held in $100 bail to appear in Police Court to-day on a charge of holding up John J. Wolf, a clerk in the Western Engine Company, last night.

Wolf was held up on Grand street at 423 East Thirtieth street and was taken to a room where he was held for trial. He was held up by a man with a scar on his face.

Wolf was held up on Grand street at 423 East Thirtieth street and was taken to a room where he was held for trial. He was held up by a man with a scar on his face.

Wolf was held up on Grand street at 423 East Thirtieth street and was taken to a room where he was held for trial. He was held up by a man with a scar on his face.

Wolf was held up on Grand street at 423 East Thirtieth street and was taken to a room where he was held for trial. He was held up by a man with a scar on his face.

Wolf was held up on Grand street at 423 East Thirtieth street and was taken to a room where he was held for trial. He was held up by a man with a scar on his face.

Wolf was held up on Grand street at 423 East Thirtieth street and was taken to a room where he was held for trial. He was held up by a man with a scar on his face.

Wolf was held up on Grand street at 423 East Thirtieth street and was taken to a room where he was held for trial. He was held up by a man with a scar on his face.

Wolf was held up on Grand street at 423 East Thirtieth street and was taken to a room where he was held for trial. He was held up by a man with a scar on his face.

Wolf was held up on Grand street at 423 East Thirtieth street and was taken to a room where he was held for trial. He was held up by a man with a scar on his face.

Wolf was held up on Grand street at 423 East Thirtieth street and was taken to a room where he was held for trial. He was held up by a man with a scar on his face.

Wolf was held up on Grand street at 423 East Thirtieth street and was taken to a room where he was held for trial. He was held up by a man with a scar on his face.

NEWSDEALER WARD MISSING.

Left His Store Tuesday and Has Not Since Been Seen.

His Alleged Brother-in-Law Tries to Take Possession.

The police at Headquarters were requested this morning to ascertain the whereabouts of John H. Ward, a news paper and stationery dealer, of 585 Amsterdam avenue, who has mysteriously disappeared from his home.

Mr. Ward was a quiet, unassuming man and occupied a small apartment in the rear of his little store. Still further to the rear was a set of rooms which he sub-leased to Mr. Charles Moeller, his wife and two children. He was apparently in comfortable circumstances, and has accounts with the Colonial Bank and Biecker Street Bank. As far as was known the morning he disappeared on these accounts during the last three days during the period of his disappearance.

He has one sister living in this city who lives downtown that his friends know of, but it is not known if he had a brother-in-law, the husband of another sister.

About 8 o'clock Tuesday night Mr. Ward asked Mr. Moeller to take charge of his store for a few hours. He said he was going to call on his sister. He did not return that night, nor has he been seen since.

Yesterday morning Mr. Moeller says a man, who said he was George Marshall, called on him and told him that he had been in the store and had taken possession of it.

Mr. Moeller said that he was going to the West One Hundred street station to see the Captain. In the mean time Mr. Marshall had taken possession of the property, into consultation, and the two agreed that Marshall should not be allowed to enter the premises unless he could produce an order from Mr. Ward or a civil court.

A little later Marshall returned and told them that Capt. Murphy had asked him if he (Marshall) would assume all responsibility for the store. Marshall said that he would do so, and that he would take possession of the store. Mr. Moeller said that he knew where Mr. Ward was, but declined to state his whereabouts.

Marshall said that he was going to the West One Hundred street station to see the Captain. In the mean time Mr. Marshall had taken possession of the property, into consultation, and the two agreed that Marshall should not be allowed to enter the premises unless he could produce an order from Mr. Ward or a civil court.

Marshall said that he was going to the West One Hundred street station to see the Captain. In the mean time Mr. Marshall had taken possession of the property, into consultation, and the two agreed that Marshall should not be allowed to enter the premises unless he could produce an order from Mr. Ward or a civil court.

Marshall said that he was going to the West One Hundred street station to see the Captain. In the mean time Mr. Marshall had taken possession of the property, into consultation, and the two agreed that Marshall should not be allowed to enter the premises unless he could produce an order from Mr. Ward or a civil court.

Marshall said that he was going to the West One Hundred street station to see the Captain. In the mean time Mr. Marshall had taken possession of the property, into consultation, and the two agreed that Marshall should not be allowed to enter the premises unless he could produce an order from Mr. Ward or a civil court.

Marshall said that he was going to the West One Hundred street station to see the Captain. In the mean time Mr. Marshall had taken possession of the property, into consultation, and the two agreed that Marshall should not be allowed to enter the premises unless he could produce an order from Mr. Ward or a civil court.

Marshall said that he was going to the West One Hundred street station to see the Captain. In the mean time Mr. Marshall had taken possession of the property, into consultation, and the two agreed that Marshall should not be allowed to enter the premises unless he could produce an order from Mr. Ward or a civil court.

Marshall said that he was going to the West One Hundred street station to see the Captain. In the mean time Mr. Marshall had taken possession of the property, into consultation, and the two agreed that Marshall should not be allowed to enter the premises unless he could produce an order from Mr. Ward or a civil court.

Marshall said that he was going to the West One Hundred street station to see the Captain. In the mean time Mr. Marshall had taken possession of the property, into consultation, and the two agreed that Marshall should not be allowed to enter the premises unless he could produce an order from Mr. Ward or a civil court.

Marshall said that he was going to the West One Hundred street station to see the Captain. In the mean time Mr. Marshall had taken possession of the property, into consultation, and the two agreed that Marshall should not be allowed to enter the premises unless he could produce an order from Mr. Ward or a civil court.

Marshall said that he was going to the West One Hundred street station to see the Captain. In the mean time Mr. Marshall had taken possession of the property, into consultation, and the two agreed that Marshall should not be allowed to enter the premises unless he could produce an order from Mr. Ward or a civil court.

Marshall said that he was going to the West One Hundred street station to see the Captain. In the mean time Mr. Marshall had taken possession of the property, into consultation, and the two agreed that Marshall should not be allowed to enter the premises unless he could produce an order from Mr. Ward or a civil court.

Marshall said that he was going to the West One Hundred street station to see the Captain. In the mean time Mr. Marshall had taken possession of the property, into consultation, and the two agreed that Marshall should not be allowed to enter the premises unless he could produce an order from Mr. Ward or a civil court.

Marshall said that he was going to the West One Hundred street station to see the Captain. In the mean time Mr. Marshall had taken possession of the property, into consultation, and the two agreed that Marshall should not be allowed to enter the premises unless he could produce an order from Mr. Ward or a civil court.

Marshall said that he was going to the West One Hundred street station to see the Captain. In the mean time Mr. Marshall had taken possession of the property, into consultation, and the two agreed that Marshall should not be allowed to enter the premises unless he could produce an order from Mr. Ward or a civil court.

Marshall said that he was going to the West One Hundred street station to see the Captain. In the mean time Mr. Marshall had taken possession of the property, into consultation, and the two agreed that Marshall should not be allowed to enter the premises unless he could produce an order from Mr. Ward or a civil court.

Marshall said that he was going to the West One Hundred street station to see the Captain. In the mean time Mr. Marshall had taken possession of the property, into consultation, and the two agreed that Marshall should not be allowed to enter the premises unless he could produce an order from Mr. Ward or a civil court.

Marshall said that he was going to the West One Hundred street station to see the Captain. In the mean time Mr. Marshall had taken possession of the property, into consultation, and the two agreed that Marshall should not be allowed to enter the premises unless he could produce an order from Mr. Ward or a civil court.

Marshall said that he was going to the West One Hundred street station to see the Captain. In the mean time Mr. Marshall had taken possession of the property, into consultation, and the two agreed that Marshall should not be allowed to enter the premises unless he could produce an order from Mr. Ward or a civil court.

Marshall said that he was going to the West One Hundred street station to see the Captain. In the mean time Mr. Marshall had taken possession of the property, into consultation, and the two agreed that Marshall should not be allowed to enter the premises unless he could produce an order from Mr. Ward or a civil court.

Marshall said that he was going to the West One Hundred street station to see the Captain. In the mean time Mr. Marshall had taken possession of the property, into consultation, and the two agreed that Marshall should not be allowed to enter the premises unless he could produce an order from Mr. Ward or a civil court.

Marshall said that he was going to the West One Hundred street station to see the Captain. In the mean time Mr. Marshall had taken possession of the property, into consultation, and the two agreed that Marshall should not be allowed to enter the premises unless he could produce an order from Mr. Ward or a civil court.

Marshall said that he was going to the West One Hundred street station to see the Captain. In the mean time Mr. Marshall had taken possession of the property, into consultation, and the two agreed that Marshall should not be allowed to enter the premises unless he could produce an order from Mr. Ward or a civil court.

Marshall said that he was going to the West One Hundred street station to see the Captain. In the mean time Mr. Marshall had taken possession of the property, into consultation, and the two agreed that Marshall should not be allowed to enter the premises unless he could produce an order from Mr. Ward or a civil court.

Marshall said that he was going to the West One Hundred street station to see the Captain. In the mean time Mr. Marshall had taken possession of the property, into consultation, and the two agreed that Marshall should not be allowed to enter the premises unless he could produce an order from Mr. Ward or a civil court.

Marshall said that he was going to the West One Hundred street station to see the Captain. In the mean time Mr. Marshall had taken possession of the property, into consultation, and the two agreed that Marshall should not be allowed to enter the premises unless he could produce an order from Mr. Ward or a civil court.

Marshall said that he was going to the West One Hundred street station to see the Captain. In the mean time Mr. Marshall had taken possession of the property, into consultation, and the two agreed that Marshall should not be allowed to enter the premises unless he could produce an order from Mr. Ward or a civil court.

Marshall said that he was going to the West One Hundred street station to see the Captain. In the mean time Mr. Marshall had taken possession of the property, into consultation, and the two agreed that Marshall should not be allowed to enter the premises unless he could produce an order from Mr. Ward or a civil court.

Marshall said that he was going to the West One Hundred street station to see the Captain. In the mean time Mr. Marshall had taken possession of the property, into consultation, and the two agreed that Marshall should not be allowed to enter the premises unless he could produce an order from Mr. Ward or a civil court.

Marshall said that he was going to the West One Hundred street station to see the Captain. In the mean time Mr. Marshall had taken possession of the property, into consultation, and the two agreed that Marshall should not be allowed to enter the premises unless he could produce an order from Mr. Ward or a civil court.

Marshall said that he was going to the West One Hundred street station to see the Captain. In the mean time Mr. Marshall had taken possession of the property, into consultation, and the two agreed that Marshall should not be allowed to enter the premises unless he could produce an order from Mr. Ward or a civil court.

Marshall said that he was going to the West One Hundred street station to see the Captain. In the mean time Mr. Marshall had taken possession of the property, into consultation, and the two agreed that Marshall should not be allowed to enter the premises unless he could produce an order from Mr. Ward or a civil court.

Marshall said that he was going to the West One Hundred street station to see the Captain. In the mean time Mr. Marshall had taken possession of the property, into consultation, and the two agreed that Marshall should not be allowed to enter the premises unless he could produce an order from Mr. Ward or a civil court.

Marshall said that he was going to the West One Hundred street station to see the Captain. In the mean time Mr. Marshall had taken possession of the property, into consultation, and the two agreed that Marshall should not be allowed to enter the premises unless he could produce an order from Mr. Ward or a civil court.

Marshall said that he was going to the West One Hundred street station to see the Captain. In the mean time Mr. Marshall had taken possession of the property, into consultation, and the two agreed that Marshall should not be allowed to enter the premises unless he could produce an order from Mr. Ward or a civil court.

Marshall said that he was going to the West One Hundred street station to see the Captain. In the mean time Mr. Marshall had taken possession of the property, into consultation, and the two agreed that Marshall should not be allowed to enter the premises unless he could produce an order from Mr. Ward or a civil court.

WRANGLING OVER A GIRL.

Two Lawyers Claim to Be Retained by Miss Ryan.

She Is Accused of Stealing an Unknown Man's Money.

The novel scene of two lawyers pulling at a good-looking girl attracted the attention of John H. Ward, a news paper and stationery dealer, of 585 Amsterdam avenue, who has mysteriously disappeared from his home.

The young woman was Miss Josephine Ryan, of 46 Willoughby street, and the lawyers were Max Klein and Francis Corcoran.

About two weeks ago Miss Ryan was visited in her apartment by a man, whose name is withheld, but who is thought to be a prominent Brooklyn politician. He had several hundred dollars with him, and after leaving Miss Ryan found that $400 was gone.

The man who returned with another man and the latter demanded the missing money of Miss Ryan. She denied having seen the money, but the man would get a warrant for her arrest.

Miss Ryan's landlady, Mrs. O'Connor, was called in and told the story. She said that she had seen the man who was accused of stealing the money.

Miss Ryan's landlady, Mrs. O'Connor, was called in and told the story. She said that she had seen the man who was accused of stealing the money.

Miss Ryan's landlady, Mrs. O'Connor, was called in and told the story. She said that she had seen the man who was accused of stealing the money.

Miss Ryan's landlady, Mrs. O'Connor, was called in and told the story. She said that she had seen the man who was accused of stealing the money.

Miss Ryan's landlady, Mrs. O'Connor, was called in and told the story. She said that she had seen the man who was accused of stealing the money.

Miss Ryan's landlady, Mrs. O'Connor, was called in and told the story. She said that she had seen the man who was accused of stealing the money.

Miss Ryan's landlady, Mrs. O'Connor, was called in and told the story. She said that she had seen the man who was accused of stealing the money.

Miss Ryan's landlady, Mrs. O'Connor, was called in and told the story. She said that she had seen the man who was accused of stealing the money.

Miss Ryan's landlady, Mrs. O'Connor, was called in and told the story. She said that she had seen the man who was accused of stealing the money.

Miss Ryan's landlady, Mrs. O'Connor, was called in and told the story. She said that she had seen the man who was accused of stealing the money.

Miss Ryan's landlady, Mrs. O'Connor, was called in and told the story. She said that she had seen the man who was accused of stealing the money.

Miss Ryan's landlady, Mrs. O'Connor, was called in and told the story. She said that she had seen the man who was accused of stealing the money.

Miss Ryan's landlady, Mrs. O'Connor, was called in and told the story. She said that she had seen the man who was accused of stealing the money.

Miss Ryan's landlady, Mrs. O'Connor, was called in and told the story. She said that she had seen the man who was accused of stealing the money.

Miss Ryan's landlady, Mrs. O'Connor, was called in and told the story. She said that she had seen the man who was accused of stealing the money.

Miss Ryan's landlady, Mrs. O'Connor, was called in and told the story. She said that she had seen the man who was accused of stealing the money.

Miss Ryan's landlady, Mrs. O'Connor, was called in and told the story. She said that she had seen the man who was accused of stealing the money.

Miss Ryan's landlady, Mrs. O'Connor, was called in and told the story. She said that she had seen the man who was accused of stealing the money.

Miss Ryan's landlady, Mrs. O'Connor, was called in and told the story. She said that she had seen the man who was accused of stealing the money.

Miss Ryan's landlady, Mrs. O'Connor, was called in and told the story. She said that she had seen the man who was accused of stealing the money.

Miss Ryan's landlady, Mrs. O'Connor, was called in and told the story. She said that she had seen the man who was accused of stealing the money.

Miss Ryan's landlady, Mrs. O'Connor, was called in and told the story. She said that she had seen the man who was accused of stealing the money.

Miss Ryan's landlady, Mrs. O'Connor, was called in and told the story. She said that she had seen the man who was accused of stealing the money.

Miss Ryan's landlady, Mrs. O'Connor, was called in and told the story. She said that she had seen the man who was accused of stealing the money.

Miss Ryan's landlady, Mrs. O'Connor, was called in and told the story. She said that she had seen the man who was accused of stealing the money.

Miss Ryan's landlady, Mrs. O'Connor, was called in and told the story. She said that she had seen the man who was accused of stealing the money.

Miss Ryan's landlady, Mrs. O'Connor, was called in and told the story. She said that she had seen the man who was accused of stealing the money.

Miss Ryan's landlady, Mrs. O'Connor, was called in and told the story. She said that she had seen the man who was accused of stealing the money.

Miss Ryan's landlady, Mrs. O'Connor, was called in and told the story. She said that she had seen the man who was accused of stealing the money.

Miss Ryan's landlady, Mrs. O'Connor, was called in and told the story. She said that she had seen the man who was accused of stealing the money.

Miss Ryan's landlady, Mrs. O'Connor, was called in and told the story. She said that she had seen the man who was accused of stealing the money.

Miss Ryan's landlady, Mrs. O'Connor, was called in and told the story. She said that she had seen the man who was accused of stealing the money.

Miss Ryan's landlady, Mrs. O'Connor, was called in and told the story. She said that she had seen the man who was accused of stealing the money.

Miss Ryan's landlady, Mrs. O'Connor, was called in and told the story. She said that she had seen the man who was accused of stealing the money.

Miss Ryan's landlady, Mrs. O'Connor, was called in and told the story. She said that she had seen the man who was accused of stealing the money.

Miss Ryan's landlady, Mrs. O'Connor, was called in and told the story. She said that she had seen the man who was accused of stealing the money.

Miss Ryan's landlady, Mrs. O'Connor, was called in and told the story. She said that she had seen the man who was accused of stealing the money.

Miss Ryan's landlady, Mrs. O'Connor, was called in and told the story. She said that she had seen the man who was accused of stealing the money.

MRS. DAYTON'S GRANDSON?

Mystery Surrounds the Identity of the Diamond-Robber.

Her Husband Denies Knowing Him, but That Is All.

The police of the West Twentieth street station refuse to give any positive information as to the identity of "James Davis," who, Tuesday afternoon, at the point of a revolver, robbed Mrs. Isaac Dayton, of 344 West Twenty-third street, of $200 worth of diamonds and $50 in money.

While they refuse to make public their knowledge regarding the man, who was charged because the Dayton refused to prosecute him, the police will not deny that they know his real name and his connection with Mrs. Dayton.

It was reported that young Dayton, a grandson of your wife, was asked, "Did you know the man who was charged because the Dayton refused to prosecute him, the police will not deny that they know his real name and his connection with Mrs. Dayton."

It was reported that young Dayton, a grandson of your wife, was asked, "Did you know the man who was charged because the Dayton refused to prosecute him, the police will not deny that they know his real name and his connection with Mrs. Dayton."

It was reported that young Dayton, a grandson of your wife, was asked, "Did you know the man who was charged because the Dayton refused to prosecute him, the police will not deny that they know his real name and his connection with Mrs. Dayton."

It was reported that young Dayton, a grandson of your wife, was asked, "Did you know the man who was charged because the Dayton refused to prosecute him, the police will not deny that they know his real name and his connection with Mrs. Dayton."

It was reported that young Dayton, a grandson of your wife, was asked, "Did you know the man who was charged because the Dayton refused to prosecute him, the police will not deny that they know his real name and his connection with Mrs. Dayton."

It was reported that young Dayton, a grandson of your wife, was asked, "Did you know the man who was charged because the Dayton refused to prosecute him, the police will not deny that they know his real name and his connection with Mrs. Dayton."

It was reported that young Dayton, a grandson of your wife, was asked, "Did you know the man who was charged because the Dayton refused to prosecute him, the police will not deny that they know his real name and his connection with Mrs. Dayton."

It was reported that young Dayton, a grandson of your wife, was asked, "Did you know the man who was charged because the Dayton refused to prosecute him, the police will not deny that they know his real name and his connection with Mrs. Dayton."

It was reported that young Dayton, a grandson of your wife, was asked, "Did you know the man who was charged because the Dayton refused to prosecute him, the police will not deny that they know his real name and his connection with Mrs. Dayton."

It was reported that young Dayton, a grandson of your wife, was asked, "Did you know the man who was charged because the Dayton refused to prosecute him, the police will not deny that they know his real name and his connection with Mrs. Dayton."

It was reported that young Dayton, a grandson of your wife, was asked, "Did you know the man who was charged because the Dayton refused to prosecute him, the police will not deny that they know his real name and his connection with Mrs. Dayton."

It was reported that young Dayton, a grandson of your wife, was asked, "Did you know the man who was charged because the Dayton refused to prosecute him, the police will not deny that they know his real name and his connection with Mrs. Dayton."

It was reported that young Dayton, a grandson of your wife, was asked, "Did you know the man who was charged because the Dayton refused to prosecute him, the police will not deny that they know his real name and his connection with Mrs. Dayton."

It was reported that young Dayton, a grandson of your wife, was asked, "Did you know the man who was charged because the Dayton refused to prosecute him, the police will not deny that they know his real name and his connection with Mrs. Dayton."

It was reported that young Dayton, a grandson of your wife, was asked, "Did you know the man who was charged because the Dayton refused to prosecute him, the police will not deny that they know his real name and his connection with Mrs. Dayton."

It was reported that young Dayton, a grandson of your wife, was asked, "Did you know the man who was charged because the Dayton refused to prosecute him, the police will not deny that they know his real name and his connection with